We ll live to fly the old Golden Eagle yet, let s hope. There was no time for further talk, even had the boys been in any position to consider conversation. The trunk was rapidly nearing the whirlpool-and death. Small wonder that brave as the boys were a despairing cry burst from their throats as they saw what seemed the end of their ride close upon them. It was as if they could feel the breath of the Pale Horseman already blowing chilly in their faces. But suddenly a strange thing happened. Both boys had closed their eyes and only moved their lips in prayer as they saw that inevitably in a few minutes they must be sucked into the maelstrom. Now, however, they opened them in amazement. The swift rush of the log to which they clung like drowned rats had stopped. It took them only a few seconds to take in what had occurred. The great log swinging one end toward the swirling current had jammed clear across the stream and...
