Harbord, United States Army, Chief of the American Military Mission, on the Military Problem of a Mandatory Over Armenia From: Brig. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley. To: Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, Chief American Military Mission to Armenia. Subject: The military problem of a mandatory. When America was confronted with the problem of the recent war, every effort was made to keep us from being involved in it. For two years we kept on friendly terms with the nations which were at war, always with the hope that a settlement would be reached without our becoming involved. The efforts we made to keep out of the war went so far as to involve the criticism by first one power and then another. On the other hand, when we finally were confronted with a situation which made it our duty to enter the war, we did so on a very broad basis. Plans were made to cover every contingency. The home Government gave loyal support without...
