Excerpt from Further Remarks on the University System of Education, as Affected by the Adoption of the Late Syndicate Report But I cannot in justice proceed with my task, without previously offering my warmest acknowledgements to Mr. Marsh of Trinity Hall, as having been the first to come forwards and enforce what I cannot but look upon as the only prudent, and indeed only practical method of honestly regarding the University system of Education as affected by the late Syndicate report. His remarks I shall accept as the basis of my own, especially requesting attention to his observation, that, if the present changes are to work fairly for Classical Honors, the Mathematical and Classical Triposes must eventually be separated, and adding, that it requires but little wisdom to discern, how desirable it is, that something further should be required from the more favoured Mathematician in the way of general attainment, than is at present exacted from him. With regard to certain amendments to the regulations respecting the new Honor Triposes now in circulation among the Members of the Senate, I would remark, that the arrangement of the successful Candidates in Alphabetical order in the respective Classes is a most desirable regulation, which might even be extended with advantage to the Classical, though perhaps not to the Mathematical Tripos that any alteration of the time of the new Tripos Examinations appears at present premature; and that we shall introduce a new and questionable element into our system, if we permit Graduates of any standing to compete in our Honor Examinations with those, whose benefit the Syndicate had immediately in view in its Report.
