Outskirts Press. Paperback. Condition: New. 406 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 5.9in. x 1.0in. A story of love and family and friends. A story of deception and revenge. Because the MacDougall and the Larkin families have close family ties it is assumed that Derek MacDougall and Flannery Larkin will marry when they graduate from college. When Flannery becomes a famous fantasy childrens writer during college she lets the fame rule her life and Derek feels that he is no longer important to her. When Chloe, Flannerys half- sister finds out that Derek is with his romance and engagement she decides to change the course of his life, Flannerys life and mainly her own life by drugging Dereks tea and then pretending that he that night got her pregnant. Derek believes Chloe really cares for him so breaks off his engagement to Flannery and marries Chloe instead. Six years later Derek divorces Chloe because she is a horrible mother to their two young children and the wife from hell. He also divorces her for having an ongoing affair with his half-brother Sean. Flannery returns to Geneva, Illinois after living in her fathers native Scotland for six years to spend time with her Granny Anne who raised her after the death of her father James when she was four. Flannery is also hoping that she and Derek can be friends again and Derek prays for a renewed friendship with Flannery. When Flannery foolishly asks Derek about his failed marriage he tells her that she has a lot of nerve to be judging him. Then he tells her why he married Chloe, not because she lied that her baby was his but because he felt that he came second to her writing career and that she was in Scotland much more than with him in...
