Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Chestnut Burr, 1914 Principles of education, and some skill in their conscious application in actual teaching, the young teacher need not be limited to a machine-like application of mere prescriptions and devices, but may develop some originality and individuality. The feeling of worth and power resulting therefrom is the source of that inspiration which, emanating from the teacher, stimulates the pupil to a high degree of sustained effort and achievement, and reacting on the teacher urges toward growth and progress. The Normal School is not therefore limited by a narrow professional aim. In the class room and even in the actual work of training the ultimate aim is to broaden and deepen, to quicken and refine the life of its students. In no other type of professional school is the full, well-rounded development of the worker so essential to the attainment of the end in view. For here even more depends upon the spirit of the worker than upon mere technical knowledge and skill, and the final aim, therefore, of the school, is to nurture and keep alive in the pupil-teacher a sense of the dignity and worth of her work, through a growing appreciation of its possibilities for herself and her pupils.
