Excerpt from Liability of the Government of Great Britain: For the Depredations of Rebel Privateers on the Commerce of the United States, Considered No citizen of the United States, who loves his country or his race, can desire to see a rupture of the amicable relations which have existed between his country and Great Britain for upwards of half a century. On the contrary, his ardent desire should and would be, that these relations should be perpetual; he would regard it as his imperative duty to see to it that, if those relations are interrupted, the fault could not be attributed to his country, but should, in the judgment of enlightened men everywhere and by the Great Ruler of all, be charged upon Great Britain.
