Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from A Recreation Manager s Guide to Understanding River Use and Users The impetus for a broad river recreation survey using standardized data collection methods came from both resource managers and researchers in the 1970 s. Managers needed information on user characteristics and preferences in order to develop effective management plans and evaluate newly implemented policies. Without such information, critical decisions relating to use restrictions, facility developments, interpretive activities, access improvements, and other changes in the recreation setting had to be based on intuition and best guess.
