RELATIVE IGNITION PROPENSITY OF TEST MARKET CIGARETTES (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)DOWNLOAD

Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Relative Ignition Propensity of Test Market Cigarettes The Cigarette Extinction Method measures whether a cigarette, when placed on a heat-absorbing substrate, burns long and strong enough to cause ignition had it been dropped on a piece of furniture. A lit cigarette is placed on one of three substrates consisting of a fixed number of pieces of common filter paper. Failure is defined as the cigarette burning its full length. The procedure is repeated a set number of times and the percent failures is calculated. [while the metric in this test is the cessation of burning, it is not a test for self-extinguishing cigarettes. Some cigarette designs that pass this procedure have also performed well in the Mock-up Test, burning their full length without causing an ignition] The two methods produce similar results. Both were subjected to an interlaboratory evaluation (ile) to measure their reproducibility. In addition, nist tested 20 commercial cigarettes and 5 experimental cigarettes using the two methods. A cigarette smoke toxicity testing plan.10 A panel of experts from government, industry and academia developed a four-tier plan, proceeding from rapid and inexpensive tests to longer, more costly measurements.
