Tho I cannot see my Fancy with the Hopes of Praise or Profit from the following Book, yet I am willing to plead its Cause, and deliver it with as fair a Title as I can to my Readers Approbation, to which (tis said) Books of this Kind have very little Right. For the Grave dislike them for treating on so gay a Subject; and the Sparks, for confining the Subject to such strict Rules of Virtue and Honour: So that a Romance is like the Husband in the Fable, whose Young Wife pulld out all his grey Hairs, and his Old one, the black. Thus it fard with this Kind of Heroic Love of late; it has been, as it were, rallyd out of Practice, and its Professors laughd out of Countenance, while Interest and loose Gallantry have been set up in its Place, and monopolized all its Business and Effects. How far this has been an Inlet to that Deluge of Libertinism which has overflowd the Age, the many unhappy Marriages, and unkind Separations, may inform us, and at the same...
