Worthy Master delivered the following annual address: Brothers and Sisters of the State Grange: - Another anniversary of our State Organization calls us together in fraternal assemblage. The year that is past, freighted, as it undoubtedly has been to all of us, with toil and care, has also presented to us, as Patrons, manifold blessings, for which I hope we are truly thankful. The history of Grange work in our State justifies, in a large degree, the confidence and hope of its usefulness expressed in my last address to you. Peace and harmony reign within our borders. The mass of our member ship are true to the fundamental principles of our organization. None are less impressed with the necessity of organization, union, and labor for the improvement of the agricultural class, than they ever were. If this is largely manifested in a patient, trusting and waiting for the hoped for good to come through this organization, and if too little is done in self help, it the more fixes upon this body the great responsibility of devising some means of stimulating the masses composing the Subordinate Grange into that kind of exertion through which alone this good can ever come. The executive officers are chosen from among you. They are like your selves in knowledge, experience and wisdom. Wherever their efforts have fallen short of the measure of their duty, as of the requirements of the occasion, it is now your mission and it is your duty to supply the defi ciency -...
