Quality Learning Australasia, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 254 x 178 mm. Language: English Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.IMPROVING LEARNING has been written in response to repeated requests for a detailed explanation of the quality improvement philosophy applied to school education. It explains how to engage everyone in improvement students, teachers, school leaders, system administrators, families and school community members. This book shows you how to get started and how to continue to improve learning, performance and the quality of school life. IMPROVING LEARNING summarises a holistic and proven theory for improvement based on the philosophy of W. Edwards Deming and other key practitioners in industry, government and education. It draws heavily on the authors experience of working with hundreds of schools, districts, education and other systems over three decades. IMPROVING LEARNING offers new ways of thinking about school improvement. Simple and practical tools are explained, and the book includes links to templates, video clips, papers and other resources to support your improvement efforts. Michael and Jane provide ample evidence that quality management methods not only work in education, they make a difference. MS LOU TRIBUS - Primary school teacher - St Thomas Aquinas School - Milton Keynes - UK This book is a must have guide for schools that are serious about whole school improvement. BARBARA KERR - Whole School Development Advisor - Education East Africa - Tanzania MICHAEL KING established and lead the Australian Quality Council 1996 Quality in Schools initiative, which introduced quality improvement ideas and methods to over 350 schools and preschools. Michael established QLA in 2002 to continue to support schools in their improvement efforts. QLA designs and delivers professional development interventions for education system leaders, school leaders, and teachers, leading to demonstrable sustainable improvements in school performance and the...
