Not illustrated. 1838 Excerpt: . and the angles at each end, formed by the line with the bearings of the barometer at each station, will be all that is necessary for taking two strides with sufficient accuracy. As the barometer will give a good approximation to the true height at every station, and as the distances may be pretty accurately taken; a profile across an extensive district may be taken in a short time. From five to ten miles per day may be taken by an experienced surveyor, and a skilful barometer-bearer. If notes are extensively taken, much of the character of the country may be presented on, or accompanying, the profile and sketch-book. Sec. 167. The barometer should be applied twice at every station in the same day. It is found, that when the atmosphere is uniform, and the barometer is not influenced by change of temperature nor moisture, the barometer will sink the lowest at about 4 o'clock in both forenoon and afternoon; and will rise the highest at 9 in the forenoon and 11 in the evening. This is supposed to be caused by a uniformly operating cause, above clouds or other modifications of aqueous vapor. Therefore the barometer ought to be twice set on the same day and place; so that where it stands at 4 o'clock in the forenoon or afternoon, it should again stand at 9 in the forenoon or 11 in the evening, and an average be made. But when...
